Learner Outcome

W-4.3 Describe physical, emotional and social changes that occur during puberty; e.g., menstruation, secondary sexual characteristics, changing identity and moods

How To Use

This lesson plan contains several activities to achieve the learner outcome above. You may choose to do some or all of the activities, based on the needs of your students and the time available. Some of the activities build on the ones that come before them, but all can be used alone.

For a quick lesson, combine activities A, B and G.

If you choose not to do all the activities, use your professional judgement to assess which outcomes you have covered and which may need additional activities.

Background Information for Teachers

Knowing what will happen during puberty is the first step towards adapting well to adolescence. Learning facts about bodies and growing up can help students to stay healthy, take good care of themselves and make good decisions.

Developing positive coping strategies and developing self-confidence is essential to adolescent development. Discussion about feelings, and strategies to deal with stress and change, from other Health lessons, can be linked to dealing with the emotional changes of puberty like mood swings. Sharing about ourselves is a good way to encourage self-confidence. Accepting and embracing the change that comes with growing up involves knowing one’s self and making a personal plan for the future.

Inclusive Language
Language is complex, evolving and powerful. In these lessons, inclusive language is used to be inclusive of all students, including those with diverse gender identities, gender expressions and sexual orientations. This includes the use of ‘they’ as a singular gender-neutral pronoun.

A person’s sex can be male, female or intersex (not clearly defined as either male or female). Sex is independent of gender identity. Gender identity is a person’s internal sense of identity as female, male, both or neither, regardless of their sex assigned at birth.

For many people, their gender matches the sex they were assigned at birth (cisgender). For others, their gender identity does not match the sex they were assigned at birth. They may use terms like transgender, trans, non-binary, gender fluid, gender queer, agender or others, to describe their gender identity. The umbrella term ‘trans’ is primarily used here, to describe people whose gender identity and sex assigned at birth differ. While this umbrella term does not fit everyone, the intention is to be inclusive as possible.
A. Ground Rules

Ensure ground rules are established before beginning this lesson. For classes that have already established ground rules, quickly reviewing them can help ensure a successful lesson.

B. Puberty Kit

This activity encourages students to identify tools they can use to help with some of the more challenging aspects of puberty.

There are two options for obtaining the tools needed to teach this activity:

- Buy or collect items to make a puberty kit using the list of materials. The kit can typically be assembled for around $20 using items from a dollar store/thrift store.
- Print a copy of the pictorial Puberty Kit. Consider laminating the pages.

It may also be possible to borrow a puberty kit for use in the classroom from your school nurse or zone sexual health education team, however this option may not be available in your area.

Be familiar with the contents of the kit and the discussion points for each item, before beginning the activity. The complete list of items and explanations is included here.

1. Pass out the items/pictures from the kit until all are distributed.

2. Give students a few minutes to discuss their item with their neighbour.

3. Ask one student to hold up their item or picture and share what they think the item has to do with puberty. Encourage them to guess if they are unsure. Encourage other members of the class to add their own ideas about the item.

4. Add any information still missing, clarify any incorrect information and answer questions about each item, before going on to the next item.
C. Then, Now and Beyond Worksheet

Students may need encouragement to see the positive aspects of puberty and growing up. Envisioning who they hope to be in the future is part of this process.

1. Distribute the handout Then, Now and Beyond.

2. Have students complete the handout individually. They may need some prompting about using their memories to complete the Then column and using their imagination to complete the Beyond column. In the What I Look Like category, encourage them to think broadly and include aspects such as hairstyle, height, shoe size or favourite clothing.

3. When students are finished, have them share their answers with a partner or in a small group.

4. Debrief this activity by asking students:
   - What did you learn about yourself?
   - What do you like about the future you?
   - Who are the people that will be part of your support system in junior high/middle school?

D. The Me to Be Collage

Students will celebrate the person they will become during puberty.

1. The students will collect pictures and words that represent who they hope to be in grade 8 (when most of them will have at least begun going through puberty) and use them to make a collage. Emphasize to the students that they collect pictures about their hopes, goals, friends, activities or skills, not just about how they might look.

2. If you completed the Then, Now and Beyond activity, students can use their answers as ideas for the pictures to collect.

3. You can choose to make collages out of magazine/newspaper pictures or use pictures found online.

4. If students are bringing pictures from home, have them make a list of what they need to remember to bring the next day.
5. When the students are finished, display the collages throughout the classroom with each student’s permission.

E. Puberty Changes Kahoot! Quiz

This quiz can be a great review, wrap-up of the unit or a fun energizer in between other activities. For more information on using Kahoot!, visit getkahoot.com

1. Open the Kahoot! Quiz: Grade 4 Puberty Changes

2. As a class, answer the quiz questions and discuss the answers together. You can play the quiz in individual or team mode.

F. Advice Corner Interview

Students use the knowledge they learned during the puberty kit activity to answer some difficult questions about coping with puberty.

1. Distribute the handout Advice Corner.

2. Have students complete step one in class.

3. Ask students to take the handout home and complete step two with any adult they trust, including a parent, grandparent, foster parent, older sibling, aunt, uncle, coach, or family friend.

4. Explain that this is not a graded assignment and there are no right or wrong answers.

5. Take time to debrief this activity next class with questions such as:
   - What did this activity teach you about puberty?
   - What are some other questions that young people might have about puberty? How can we answer them?

Keep in mind that not all students have equal opportunities for open discussion with family or other adults in their life.

Due to the sensitive nature of human sexuality topics, it is recommended that homework is reviewed or discussed but not graded.
G. Question Box

Answer any questions from the question box in the previous lesson. Have students submit any new questions and address them next class.

Addressing the questions at the next class allows you time to review the questions and prepare responses.

Self-Reflection

During the lesson, were:

- ground rules being followed?
- good practices established regarding group work and discussion?

What will you change for future classes with this group?
What will you change for future use of this lesson?

Student Assessment

During the lesson, did students:

Knowledge:

- identify various changes that occur during puberty?
- describe ways to cope with change?
- identify support systems that can help during puberty?
- develop of picture of a future self?

Skills:

- work together to brainstorm examples of puberty change?
- exhibit appropriate listening and speaking skills during class discussion?

Attitudes:

- acknowledge that changes will occur during puberty?
- accept that change is part of puberty?
- demonstrate comfort discussing elements of sexuality?
- acknowledge the positive aspects of puberty?
Then, Now and Beyond

Fill in the chart with information about yourself. Use your imagination to fill in what you think might be true for the grade 8 column.

ANSWER KEY: Grade 4 Puberty Changes Quiz

Correct answers are in bold text.

1. A physical change of puberty is:
   - Caring more about your appearance
   - Growing taller
   - Wanting to fit in
   - Growing hair in new places

   Caring more about your appearance, and wanting to fit in, are emotional changes of puberty, not physical changes. All four are changes that can happen to anyone during puberty.

2. An emotional change of puberty is:
   - Caring more about your appearance
   - Growing taller
   - Wanting to fit in
   - Growing hair in new places

   Growing taller, and growing hair in new places, are physical changes of puberty, not emotional changes. All four are changes that can happen to anyone during puberty.

3. What can you do about body odour?
   - Use deodorant or antiperspirant
   - Shower or bathe every day
   - Wear the same clothes all week
   - Nothing, just get used to being stinky

   Washing clothes regularly and bathing more frequently are skills that may need to be taught.

4. Every boy has wet dreams every night during puberty.
   - True
   - False

   Some people have frequent wet dreams, others do not. Wet dreams are usually defined as when semen is ejaculated from the penis when the person is sleeping. People assigned female or girls also might also notice they release some fluid from the genitals when they are sleeping.
5. Sexual thoughts and feelings only start after puberty is done.
   - True
   - False

Sexual thoughts and feelings commonly begin during puberty.

6. If you get acne during puberty, it might help to:
   - stop eating chocolate
   - gently wash your face every day
   - use a soap, lotion or cream made to fight acne
   - pop your pimples

There is no link between chocolate and acne. Popping pimples can make acne worse and lead to scarring. Gently washing (not scrubbing) the face once or twice a day, with a mild soap or cleanser, can help. Products that contain benzoyl peroxide or salicylic acid are designed to reduce acne and are effective for many people.

7. Getting your period:
   - means you are an adult now
   - is one step in growing up
   - means it is time to have a baby
   - is nothing to be ashamed of

Periods are normal and natural, and a part of growing up. Treating periods like something shameful or embarrassing is not healthy or helpful.

8. Feeling lonely and confused sometimes is common during puberty.
   - True
   - False

It can be easy to focus on the physical changes of puberty, as they are so noticeable. But the emotional changes can be more stressful for many people, and they may need more support in navigating those changes.

9. Who grows shorter during puberty?
   - Everyone
   - No one

Although some kids may wonder if they will ever grow, if they start puberty later than many of their friends, getting taller will eventually happen for everyone who goes through puberty.
10. Who becomes more interested in dating during puberty?

- Everyone
- No one
- Some people

Not everyone becomes interested in dating. For some people it may begin before puberty, for others after, or even never. For people who are interested, it is normal to be interested in dating people of any gender. Some people clearly know their sexual orientation at this age, and others do not.
